Application as Frontend Engineer (React / TypeScript)

Dear Acme Commerce Team,

My name is Alex Mustermann, I am a frontend / fullstack engineer with over five years of experience in React and TypeScript, and I would like to take care of the checkout and account experience of your e-commerce platform.

I believe we are a match because shipping product frontends end to end is what I do. At Northwind Labs I owned the whole frontend of a budgeting app that reached 60,000+ monthly active users, including the subscription and referral flows that drove most of the growth. Before that I brought a SaaS platform from the first spec to production and cut its initial load from 4.2s to 1.6s. I put strong emphasis on typed contracts, measured performance and small, well-reviewed pull requests.

You write that the checkout team is rebuilding the funnel on Next.js with a focus on conversion. I immediately felt attracted to that: a page where a person has a few seconds to act has to be fast, obvious and correct, and that is the kind of frontend craft I enjoy most. I would love to join your team in Berlin and I can start immediately. I will be glad to share more about my projects and prove my skills to you. You can reach me by phone or email as shown in the header. Thank you!

Kind regards,

Alex Mustermann
